Box Out Bullying was so impressive! They caught the kids' attention right off and held on throughout the whole presentation. Bullying is a tough topic, but they made it okay to talk about, even to laugh about. Not only were the kids laughing out loud, but the adults were chuckling right along with them.

Yes, the presentation was fun, fast paced, and full of laughs, but the message was the important part. Box Out Bullying uses the Olweus anti-bullying rules which dovetail perfectly with what we use at our school. They explain bullying in a way that all ages can understand and provide answers, not just more questions.

I would highly recommend this theatrical team. They are high energy which keep the students engaged, encourage audience participation, provide follow-up classroom activities, can tweak the presentation to your specific needs, and actually address the topic of bullying. What more could you want?
