Box Out Bullying Afterschool Residency

Using creative drama, Box Out Bullying teaches social and emotional skills to young people to create positive learning environments. A school climate assessment is conducted at the start of each residency to identify the particular challenges that the community is facing. The residency is evaluated throughout its duration and all workshops are taught by two highly trained teaching artists/drama therapists.

- Age appropriate curriculum for Kindergarten through 8th grade,
- Customizes to your school size, schedule, and target age group

While working in Box Out Bullying's supportive creative drama setting, participating students will assist in the creation and presentation of a final showcase/performance, learning critical life skills in the process.

A presentation will be held on the final day for invited guests. All students will be involved in all aspects of the presentation, participating as writers, performers, directors, or stage managers.

- $3500 - $10,500 for an individualized residency lasting one, two, four, eight, or twelve week session(s)

All lessons will provide invaluable socioemotional skills to every participant by addressing potential problems, promoting bystander empowerment and creating empathy among students.
